YPSILANTI
Located at the juncture of old Indian trails and the Huron River, this area was the camping and burying ground for several Indian tribes. In 1809 Gabriel Godfroy established an Indian trading post on the west bank of the Huron which he maintained for about ten years. Benjamin Woodruff and companions came up the river by boat in 1823 and settled one mile east of here at Woodruff's Grove. In 1825 a town was platted by Judge Augustus B. Woodward of Detroit and two local men, William Harwood and John Stewart. Situated on both sides of the Huron where the famous Chicago Road (now U. S. 12) crossed the river, the town was named Ypsilanti in honor of the Greek war hero, Demetrius Ypsilanti. The home of Eastern Michigan University, the oldest state teachers college west of Albany, Ypsilanti is also the site of one of the state's very first publicly-supported secondary schools. In World War II the Willow Run plant was erected to build B-24 bombers which were vitally important to the war effort. True to its heritage, Ypsilanti has grown in the mainstream of commerce, industry, and education.

Day 1: Westbound Turnpike Rest Stop - Harrisburg, Pennsylvania - 49 Miles down only 2459 to go!
William Hanna, Paul Eisenberg, Scott Armstrong

Day 2: American Motorcyclist Association Headquarters & Museum in Pickerington, Ohio (not much to write home about if you ask me).

Indianapolis Motor Speedway, Indianapolis, Indiana. Saw cars running qualifying laps for the 2005 Indianapolis 500. Glad I had earplugs!

Day 3: "Old Main" at Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois. Site of the famous Lincoln / Douglas debates in 1859 where slavery vs. state's rights was a key issue . Galesburg is a railroad town. Ronald Reagan's family lived there and he attended 1st grade at a local elementary school. The family of Nancy Davis' (the future Mrs. Reagan) lived there too.

Day 4: Motorcyle bar in downtown Anamosa, IA. Paul Eisenberg, Cory Simpson, Jim Miller, Kit Simpson, and Andrew Albinger.

Parked outside the National Motorcycle Museum, Anamosa, IA. Andrew, Jim, Kit, and Cory are pictured here. This place is located about 45 minutes northeast of Cedar Rapids and about an 1 hour west of the Illinois state line. It is well worth the ride!

Inside the museum. Harley's to the left, Indians to the right. A wide variety of bikes both old and new around both corners and downstairs.
Very impressive.

The Captain America chopper from Easy Rider.

This is the Multimedia Room where the XJ Relay Bag will be put on display. The room is being funded by a grant from the Antique Motorcycle Club of America. The room will be set up like a library housing a collection of motorcycle related books, magazines, manuals, videos, and DVD's. It will include a large screen TV for screenings of On Any Sunday, Easy Rider, and Wild Ride for the Outlaws, as well as safety videos, and documentaries. The room is intended to serve as a resource for visitors who are working on restoration projects. The museum is seeking additional donations to fund completion of this project!

Looking east across the Iowa countryside toward home just 1250 miles away.

Looking back into Iowa across the mighty Mississippi from the Illinois side. Brrr.... the wind was really howling on this day. I stopped here to don every stitch of clothing in my bags for a frigid night time highway cruise to Peru, IL about 70 miles west of Chicago.

Day 5: Sturgis at last! Sturgis, Michigan that is. I took Michigan Route 12 which is the old Chicago Road from the southwest corner of the lower penninsula to Franklin on the outskirts of Detroit. The riding was good especially through the area known as the "Irish Hills".

Day 6: At the Visitor Center after crossing the Ambassador Bridge between Detroit, Michigan USA and Windsor, Ontario Canada.

With Queen of Everything (notice the treasure chest on the back of her bike) and Dwayne Verhey in Port Dover, Ontario.
Thanks for an awesome backroads tour guys!

The finish line for the race course at St. Catherines, Ontario - home of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta where I competed some 22 years ago.

Slowly I turned and made my way to Niagara Falls. There's a rainbow in the mist but I was not brave enough to try finding the pot of gold at the end of it in this case.

Day 7: Back home in the hills of north central Pennsylvania near World's End State Park. Come on over for a ride sometime!

The route... 2505.8 miles in 7 days.
